1-17-05 THE BEST RELIGIOUS NUT DICTATOR STUPIDITY CAN ELECT

Now we read in a CNN News story that President Bush has in place secret (no longer) surveillance operations in and above Iran to identify Iran's missile and WMD sites.

The plan for Iran is to make sure of the sites and then bomb them to smithereens in 'preventive' "surgical" air strikes.

This according to Seymour Hersh (a best-selling investigative journalist) with informants very high up in the Bush administration, in a New Yorker article imminently to be published.

This plan-to-bomb Iran is tentatively planned for this summer, but with this exposure, the plan may have to be revised.

A White House spokesman said in response that Hersh's story is riddled with inaccuracies and that he (the spokesman) didn't believe it.

Note the non-denial.

So you can probably expect a propaganda campaign to begin soon designed to make Iran the Most Dangerous Enemy who wants to destroy us, which makes a preventive act of war justified.

The assumption in Bush league land is that once we bomb their weapons installations that will be the end of it. What can Iran do to us then?

That was the thinking about the swift-strike bomb&invade Iraq strategy, wasn't it? And hasn't that gone so well?

The problem Bush and his 'neo-con' idiot world planners ignore is that once you declare war, the enemy isn't bound to follow your expectations. The enemy just might have ways of hitting back, and might be preparing as you read this.

But of course Bush knows from his daily prayer rituals and secret talks with God that he is doing God's Work.

And Bush knows that because a small majority of American voters elected him to a second term as President, that means they approve his Iraq invasion and anything else he does to fight terrorism. And that will naturally include eventually putting the Constitution on the back shelf during an endless National Emergency and ruling by decree and 'Executive Order.'

We're getting close.

The formula is working: create more and more to-the-death enemies so you can use internal dictatorial force in the United States to fight The Terrorists & Their Domestic Sympathizers. [Umm, that reminds me, I've got to change my registration to Republican!]

So...maybe the mismanagement and mistakes and mass bombings in Iraq (the leveling of Fallujah was designed to create a new generation of embittered Sunni enemies?) is part of the Master plan?

I love this paranoid thinking. Now I can just lie back in bed and rest my back and watch the cable news shows.
