3-20-05 THE RIGHT TO LIVE...OR DIE

My 'take' on the Terri Schiavo situation is this: The assertion by her husband that 'she never wanted to be kept alive as a vegetable' sucks unless there is testimony by others that she felt that way.

The husband has a vested interest in seeing her dead. That is, I presume he is a devout Catholic and feels his marriage vows require him to stay married to her as long as she lives.

I have heard on the news that he has a relationship with another woman and has had two children with this other woman. I presume he wants to be free to marry this other woman.

He won't commit the "sin" of divorce, but has committed the "sin" of adultery---big time.

As I say, his "principled" decision to have her starved to death sucks.
