2-12-07 Wot a Revoltin' Development *This is!

This morning I got a response from that erotic-fiction-for-women e-publisher editor: They think I'm a good writer, and "The Blessing" story was very good --- but they can't use the story. Period. Nor, significantly, did they invite me to try again.

So I take the hint. I suspect there is a sub rosa No Men Allowed rule in effect, but never admitted. Okay. I'm not going to butt my head against that pussy wall.

Maybe I'll send the story out again sometime if I ever find an e-publisher whom I think might be viable. But maybe I'll just hang up the text sex fiction gloves and forget it. I could simply put it in this Taboo site and let all you slaving sex monsters read it. Anybody want to read "The Blessing"?

Here's another propaganda knee to the groin they're trying to get us to believe.

I refer to the story released to the press in Iraq by our Defense Dept. which asserts they have proof that Iran's leaders have pushed smuggling new, highly powerful roadside bombs and other military equipment to some of the militias in Iraq to use against American and British forces.

BUT our Defense Dept. officials don't provide evidence to the media to prove their assertions. And the Iraq government hasn't seen the evidence, either!

The media are skeptical --- having been lied to so often before by this Defense Dept. and by this president and v.p.

So don't hold your breath waiting for the proofs required. This story will probably fade away and another IRAN IS THE REAL ENEMY! "story" will appear within a week.

Methinks a Plan is afoot.

And today --- 2-14-07 --- President Bush said firmly in a news conference that he is going to do something about these smuggled arms coming into Iraq from Iran! But he didn't say what.

Wait and see what the next propaganda story will be. It does seem that Bush & Co. are ramping up something with Iran. It could be a desperate diversion of media attention away from Iraq failure, or an actual attempt to provoke Iran into a border incident which could be used to justify our bombing of their nuke plants and etc.

But as Bush must know, it is easy to start a war, and hell to finish it. Iran isn't a half-dead Iraq and has thousands of missiles ready to fire.

[After all, Iran supplied Hezbollah in Lebanon with at least five thousand missiles and anti-tank weapons which allowed Hezbollah to fight Israel to a standstill in that recent miniwar. Remember? That in spite of around-the-clock bombing.]

It's a damn good bet that Iran has probably tens of thousands of such missiles in reserve for their own defense. In a war with us, we would use our prime weapon---bombing---and Iran would use their missiles. They could wreck the world economy by stopping the flow of oil. EVERYBODY would be yelling at us for causing such a disaster.

And we are extremely vulnerable to dollar punishment if the rest of the world gets pissed at us.

Can Barack Obama win the Democratic party nomination?

No. There is residual, instinctive racism in the population which will, in the privacy of the voting booth, subconsciously decide that the voter cannot accept a black President named Barack Obama.

And how odd that if a "mixed race" man is three-quarters white and one-quarter black, he is classed as a black, but if a "mixed race" man is three-quarters black and one-quarter white, he is still considered a black.

Is white blood so weak that black blood overpowers it every time? Shouldn't it be the other way around? Whose civilization is this, anyway?

Medical Note

I went to my doctor a week ago to have him do something about two little growths --- one in my left armpit, another on my left buttock --- which were irritating. He 'froze' them with a super-cold jet spray from a spray can of something (I should have asked what it was) which stung slightly as it was applied. The little growths are supposed to turn black and fall off.

Okay. And he said I'd probably get them again every year or so, most likely in the armpits, because they were genetic in origin ... they are in my inherited genes and I'll just have to deal with them as they appear. They are not my fault.

I guess if you live long enough more and more of your "scheduled deterioration" shows up.

I'll keep you informed.
