

Official Auralex Flame Retardancy Statement

Date: 02/21/2003

Auralex considers safety a very high priority and tests all products in accordance with current national standards. Auralex acoustical foam products pass the most widely adopted national standard for flame retardancy with a "Class B" rating. The official test report and other flammability information are available for download from the Online Documents section of our website, www.auralex.com. We are deeply saddened by what has occurred in Rhode Island. While it is premature to comment on the causal nature of this tragedy, we have no reason to believe that Auralex products were involved.

Best regards,

Auralex Acoustics, Inc.
