as hanging dots, color bleeding, and other cross color interference. Note the jagged edges on the stripes in the right hand image

- 16:9 Raster Compression Mode – provides the truest, highest playback resolution possible for any anamorphic DVD by scanning only the video image and not the black bars on the top and bottom of the screen

- 5 Video Status Modes – choose from D6500K, the standard color temperature for films; Theater, for a rich film-like look when viewing in a dimly lit room; Dynamic, to heighten contrast and boost brightness for a more vibrant image; Game, for playing video games; and Standard, the preset for everyday normal viewing

- Black Level Expansion (BLE) – a key standard feature of any JVC direct view model is our own BLE which creates dark, rich blacks that yield a picture with greater contrast and more vibrant colors
