RE: General information about Sony PRO VIDEO 8" monitors

It is common practice to use the PVM-8040 series in field recording applications. A company called Porta-Brace makes the bags for these monitors. If you start running into a lot of requests for these bags, we could look into becoming a dealer for them. Let me know what you find out. This information is mainly so we don't look complete ignorant about video products. (It would be kind of like us saying what is a rack-bag?)
